Algonquin Highlands hires new airport manager

By Chad Ingram

Algonquin Highlands's new airport manager will land in the township this month.

Cam Loucks will start in the position July 17. Loucks comes to Algonquin Highlands with 14 years of experience in the aviation industry and has held manager roles at the Owen Sound Regional Airport and Wiarton Keppel International Airport.

"He comes to us with a lot of experience, a lot of energy and a really positive attitude," said Deputy-reeve Liz Danielsen. "We are really excited. There are lots of opportunities at the airport and having a new manager in place is a great thing."

Algonquin Highlands has been without a fulltime airport manager since former manager Duane Hicks was dismissed in early 2013.

In the interim, a local pilot was hired on a contract basis to conduct some of the managerial duties at the site.

Work on the airport property is currently making way the new MNR fire response base for the area, which is scheduled to open next year.

Stanhope Heritage Day set to impress

Story By Jenn Watt

One of the county's most hands-on family festivals is just around the corner.

On July 19, Stanhope Heritage Day will bring animals, food, music and kids' activities to the Stanhope Museum grounds for the 12th year.

"It's a big job, but [past co-ordinator] Norma [Goodger] gave me tons of information," said this year's co-ordinator Lauren March.

To change things up, Stanhope Heritage Day adds a butter tart bake-off this year, where participants can submit their best efforts to be judged.

Also new this year, local band Custom Blend will entertain with well-known toe-tapping tunes.

Local demonstrations include mandolin making, a bagpiper, beekeeping, soap making, antique chainsaws, farm animals, pottery and much more.

The beekeeping demonstration will be run by Ron Lofthouse.

"[Participants will] be able to see into the hives," March said. "They make honey and you can watch how the bees work." They will also be dipping candles with beeswax and selling honey.

Farm animals will be brought in by local farmer Casey Cox.

And, of course, there will be citron marmalade (made with fruit grown on the property) available for purchase.

Most years, the event brings in between 700 and 800 people.

The barbecue is sponsored by Todd's Independent.

March said she's always happy to have more volunteers before, during and after the event. Send her an email if you're interested.

Stanhope Heritage Day costs $2 to get in, free for children five and younger. It takes place at 1123 North Shore Road north of Carnarvon off Highway 35 at the Stanhope Museum grounds from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on July 19.

For more information, email stanhopeheritageday@gmail.com.

Take Better Pictures

Whether you're a cottager, a full-time resident or a visitor to the Highlands, you are surrounded by glorious opportunities to make outstanding photographs. These are memories of people, places and events to share with others, to display, or for your own enjoyment.

Photography is a pastime that can be enjoyed by young and old alike. The incredible growth of digital photography has put a camera in virtually everyone's hands: from a cellphone to a DSLR, everyone has the ability to make exceptional photos. This series of articles look at ways to make your images more compelling.

In this monthly column, we look at some tips and techniques that you can use to improve your photos. We try to include tips that can be used by everyone, regardless of what kind of camera you have, and some for the more advanced user.

If you're not out taking pictures in the glorious Highlands summer, what are you doing?

Oh. Swimming, waterskiing, hiking, running, boating, playing with the kids, ATVing, eating ice cream, barbecuing, sitting back, relaxing, just enjoying life! Well you should be taking pictures! Just kidding, carry on with what you were doing!

But if you happen to want to be taking pictures, there are "billions and billions of opportunities," to mis-quote Carl Sagan!

Take flowers, for instance. Get up close and personal. Use a big aperture so that only the parts you want are in focus. Look at the background before you snap: it should be simple and non-distracting. If you're lucky enough to come across a huge colourful field, do a big panoramic shot, but try to get something in the picture to guide the eye down a river of colour.

Nature is all around you. Get down low and shoot up. Did it rain? Oh, goody! Everything is covered with water droplets. The lake is really calm after a storm; try shooting reflections in the water. A tripod is your best friend.

Or sports: and that includes the kids and the dog and maybe even the hubby doing a cannonball off the dock! For that you need a fast shutter speed to freeze the action, but rules are made to be broken, try a really SLOW shutter speed, panning with the subject just like you're skeet shooting, and smoothly trip the shutter partway through your swing (don't stop: you need to follow through!). Introduce motion.

I love shooting people eating ice cream at Kawartha Dairy. They don't skimp on the amount they scoop, I don't know many people who can eat a large (even their small is two huge scoops), but nobody can do it without dripping. Photo-op! And kids eating ice cream are too cute (be sure to get their parents' permission before you shoot, if you don't know them).

People sitting around the bonfire are a bit trickier. Don't expose for the fire, everything else in the picture will be black. Expose for the people! Not enough light? Put the camera on the tripod, use the self-timer and run in the picture yourself! Open the aperture and take a couple of test shots until you get the exposure right. Hey, digital is free! Because the shutter will probably be open for a long time, tell everyone to be vewwy vewwy still…

Shooting stars is even trickier. Take that 'very very still' thing to extremes. Be sure to include some foreground and if you don't have a tripod, don't even think about it. Attend a workshop if you're interested, but understand that it's quite technical (www.photography.to to see what's available. The general photography workshops are not that challenging and you will learn to be a better shooter).

Did I say to get up before dawn? Did I mention sunsets? Or birds? Or wildlife?

I've run out of space before I ran out of subjects. It's an amazing time of year. Create some memories for those days when the wind is howling and it's 30 below.

Prettypaws Pet Boutique

If you suspect your dog is somewhere beneath all that hair, it's probably time to walk it over to Prettypaws Pet Boutique.

One of Haliburton Village's newer businesses, Prettypaws is conveniently located on 104 Highland Street, across from Head Lake Park.

Owned and operated by Chris O'Mara-Enders, Prettypaws offers full-service grooming that includes everything from bathing to clips for dogs, cats, bunnies, and birds. If your pet can be groomed, Chris will make it look better.

"I once groomed a llama," Chris says.

The business carries only the best lines, including Wahl and Showseason grooming products.

"We offer quality products and quality service," he says. "The products we use here are the ones I use on my own dogs," he says.

Chris also strives to go the extra-mile with extras that includes free toe-nail and face trims between appointments.

"Our focus is on the health and well-being of your pet."

The business truly is a labour of love.

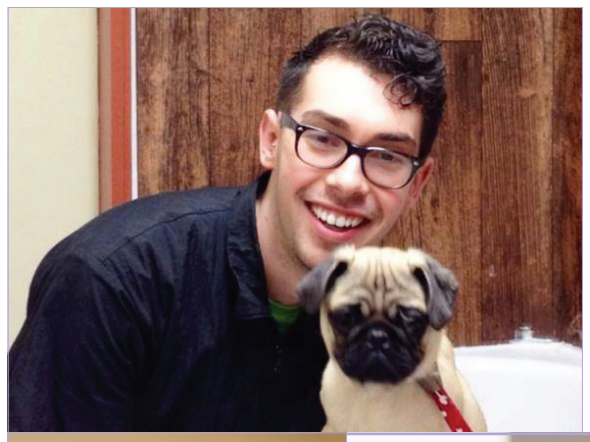
"It started as a way to pay for school," says Chris. "Then when I finished university, it occurred to me that I like working with dogs more than children, so I started this business."

He offers two unique things. First, he's open from noon to 8 pm on Mondays to accommodate working people. (From Tuesday to Saturday, he's open from 9 am to 5 pm.)

Second, he is the only groomer in the area to offer hand stripping on dogs. Essentially, this is plucking out the dead outercoat of wire haired breeds and is one of the many show grooming techniques he offers.

It's not all about show grooming, however. Chris also cares for working dogs.

"I groom hunting dogs to ensure they're ready for the season," he says. He carries a line of hunter orange collars and offers custom embroidery with the dog's name or owner's contact information so the dog can be returned should game lead it astray.



As all this indicates, Chris takes grooming seriously. He's a proud member of the National Groomer's Association of Canada and competes in grooming shows and competitions too.

"I have a passion for the art of grooming," he says. "I treat every pet that comes in like a member of my own pack. It's one-on-one time and they love it."

And they look great when the leave too.

For more information on Prettypaws Pet Spa visit PrettyPawSpa.com or email Chris at info@prettypawspa.com. Or you can call him at 705-457-0634.

Making the most of bears

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

Every summer, I read another article on how to keep bears away from your home or cottage, which is fine if that's actually what you want to do.

But I think what's missing here is that there are times when it would be really nice to have a bear or two around.

Here are the top 10 that come to mind.

1. During elections: There's nothing to deter a campaigning politician like a few bears. I say a few because most will not be deterred by one or two.
2. When it's time to mow the lawn: Only the most heartless wife would send you out to mow the lawn when a bear is eating the dandelions on it.
3. When you need a rotten log moved or an ant hill destroyed: Bears are experts at this. So, if you can get one to do the job, why do it yourself?
4. When you're trying to improve your 100-metre sprint times: My uncle wasn't even trying to do this a few years ago, but a bear helped him nevertheless.
5. If you are looking to start a small circus and already have a unicycle: One bear is generally enough to get this going, provided it's trainable.
6. If you are holding a gathering of people who are suffering from chronic constipation: A surprise visit from one big bear is often enough to cure this.
7. If you are at a church picnic and are not too sure about the potato salad: I can't think of a better time for a hungry bear to visit. Just put down your plate, walk away and hope that the bear doesn't hold a grudge.
8. If you have finally decided to make the jump to bear wrestling: Obviously, you are going to need a bear for this. Try not to get one that looks too strong.
9. If you have been tasked to accompany your partner to a foreign movie on the life cycle of lichen or some other intellectual event: Then you'd be happy to see a few bears take up residence around the car. Right?
10. If you need a temporary rug to make your home or cottage look even more outdoorsy: This is especially good during the hibernation season so long as no one makes any sudden noises.

If you find yourself in any of these situations, get out the honey and fire up the barbecue. You might be in luck.

Bands 2014 Performers

BACK ROADS

Back Roads is a Canadian band from New Brunswick that formed in 2009. The band name may be new to you but the musicians are well seasoned in the bluegrass scene. They are blending the traditional bluegrass music with some of today's hot new bluegrass. Back Roads even has some of their own material to catch your ear.

RHYME 'N' REASON

Rich close harmony, great dynamics, exciting instrumentals, humour and novelty songs are the hallmark of this versatile group, and have made them very popular, but because the guys believe their music should portray the priorities set by the "father of bluegrass" Bill Monroe, and also reflect their own lifestyles, a sizable portion of their repertoire consists of gospel songs. Close attention to detail and a good sense of appropriateness combined with a natural spontaneity helps them to adapt to any venue from a bluegrass festival to a Sunday morning church service.

TRADITIONALLY WOUND

Formed in 2007, Traditionally Wound is comprised of a richly talented group of Canadian veteran bluegrass musicians. Although fairly new as a band, the members are no strangers to the stage which is apparent the first time you see them. Their comfortable way of expressing their music and the open, obvious fun they experience every time they play is what Traditionally Wound is all about. Keeping their music rooted in the traditional sound allows a focal point for the band to bring together the individual talents of the group to a common end… Real. Good. Bluegrass.

Website: www.traditionallywound.com

THE TEBWORTH BROTHERS

The Tebworth Brothers are Wyatt and Marshal Tebworth. Wyatt is 11 years old and has been playing mandolin and fiddle for almost 6 years. Marshal is 9 years old and has been playing his fiddle since 2010.

Website: www.tebworthbrothers.com

BILL WHITE & WHITEPINE

Bill and Joe White and bassist John Renne have been playing music together over twenty four years. Their music has taken them to five province's of Canada and twelve of the States of U.S.A. and the largest ship of Carnival Cruise Line "The Dream".

Bill play's guitar and sings lead and tenor or baritone harmony vocals, and is five times male vocalist of the year. Joe White plays fiddle and sings lead and harmony vocals. Joe is five times fiddle player of the year, and central Canada Hall of fame inductee. The band has won numerous other awards including Gospel Group of the year.

Barry Calthorpe joined the band in 2007 and plays Dobro guitar, and was nominated for Dobro player of the year in 2012. Rob Tebworth has been with White Pine since 2007, playing mandolin and singing lead and bass vocals. Mike Doggett has been with White Pine playing banjo now for over a year.

Bill White & Whitepine were Canada's representatives to the International Bluegrass Music of America (IBMA) convention in Louisville, Kentucky in 2003. They have four recordings to our credit, two of which won Central Canada Bluegrass recording of the year.

ACOUSTICAL STRINGS

Acoustical Strings are a family band from Cannington, ON. The band has it's own unique blend of traditional bluegrass, gospel, and classic county sounds. Influenced by such artists as Flatt & Scrugs, Reno & Smiley, Mac Wiseman, Hank Snow, Larry Sparks, they have created there own distinctive sound. With the Dobro and Guitar as the primary instruments backed by a solid bass, and tight 3 part family harmony, this sets the band apart from other groups. If you enjoy the old style and sounds, you'll enjoy Acoustical Strings (Spence Family).

Acoustical Strings (Spence Family) have won several Central Canadian Bluegrass Awards. Roger is a 5-time winner of Dobro player of the year, receiving his Honour Roll Inductee Award. Barry is also a 5-time winner of Guitar player of the year, receiving his Honour Roll Inductee Award. Roger and Barry are the first Father – Son duo to receive this honour. The band has also won Gospel Group of the year 4 times, and has been continually nominated for other awards.

For a band that consists of 3 members, the sound is solid and complete. With their unique style and fan base support, you would not be at all disappointed with them.

THE SCHOTTS

Darrin and Alison are a picking, singing and song writing duo from South Western Ontario who bring beautiful harmonies and world-class musicianship to their unique blend of country, bluegrass and folk music. They've honed their chops playing in clubs and festivals across Canada and Europe, including a memorable appearance in Nashville on the legendary "Midnight Jamboree".

After 25 years of making beautiful music together, The Schott's have recently released their eponymous debut CD, recorded "live off the floor" to capture the freshness and energy of their live show.

THE SWEETGRASS BAND

A bluegrass band with an edge.

Their home is in the Southeast region of Ontario Canada. SweetGrass has been together for 5 years now and has made many friends as they tour the many festivals in Ontario. They enjoy each other's company which shows during their performances and has resulted in a very good following of sweetgrassers.

The current core of SweetGrass is Dr. Al Kirby on Banjo, Ginny McIlmoyle on guitar and vocals and Jimbob Marsden on bass and vocals. They do use guest players such as mandolin, dobro and lead guitar as the need rises and as the size of the venues increases.

RANDY MORRISON & FLATT RIVER

Formed in 2009, Randy Morrison and the Flatt River Band's four members are musical veterans, recognized for their talents playing bluegrass, fiddle and country music. Banjo player Larry Miller won the Central Canada Bluegrass Pioneer Award, Richard Dugal was nominated for the Central Canada Bluegrass Awards' (CCBA) Best Male Vocalist in 2010 and Martin Chapman spent many years as a bluegrass festival emcee.

Mr. Morrison has won the Central Canada Bluegrass Fiddle Player of the year three years in a row, since 2010. He has opened shows for Faron Young, Gene Watson, Glen Campbell and also played in Mac Wiseman's band.

Emerald ash borer monitoring in Haliburton County

The emerald ash borer (EAB) is an invasive, metallic green beetle that measures up to 14 mm (half inch) in length as an adult. The emerald ash borer was accidentally introduced to North America from Asia and since its discovery in 2002, has killed millions of ash trees in Canada and the United States. The EAB attacks only ash trees, but is able to kill healthy ash trees of all sizes. The damage to the tree is done by the larvae under the bark and is very difficult to detect in early stages. Symptoms of EAB attack include crown dieback, new branch suckers on the lower trunk, tunnelling under the bark, and D shaped exit holes. Researchers are investigating ways to control the insect using insecticides and biological control using predators, parasites or diseases. Currently there is an effective insecticide available but it is considered to be cost prohibitive except for treatment of individual trees.

Emerald ash borer has not yet been discovered in Haliburton County. The public is encouraged to follow precautionary measures to prevent spreading EAB by buying and burning firewood locally. Property owners can contact local tree care companies for advice on protecting individual trees. Woodlot owners can contact local forestry consultants for advice on harvesting methods that promote forest health and diversity.

Beginning in June 2014 the County of Haliburton, with support from the U-Links Centre for Community-Based Research, will work with experts from Trent University to monitor EAB traps in various locations within Haliburton County. These traps contain a pheromone that will attract the EAB if it is in the immediate area. The traps will remain in the ash trees during the summer months and will be collected in early-September for analysis. The results from the 2014 survey will be posted on the county website and local press releases in the fall of 2014.

For more information on this initiative please contact forestry@county.haliburton,on.ca. For further information on the EAB and other forest pests in Canada please visit
